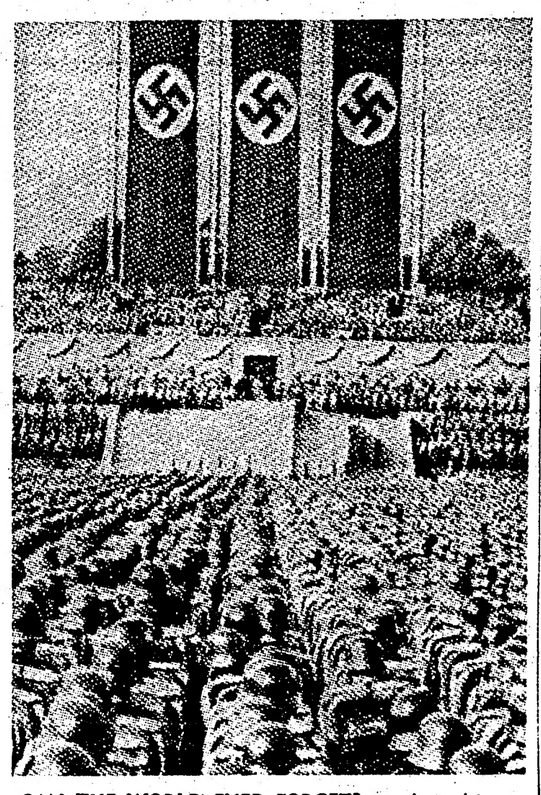
GERMANY REMEMBERS JANUARY THIRTIETH

Israel-Germany Congenial, More Reparations



CAN THE WORLD EVER FORGET? — Just thirty years ago, a scene such as this in Germany triggered off the most horrible holocaust the Jews in Europe ever experienced and eventually brought degradation to the entire German people.

New Yorker Jailed In Israel

TEL AVIV, (J'lem Post) — A comely 23-year-old New York divorcee will spend the next two months in an Israeli jail. Her offence is described as theft.

The woman, Miriam Florence Zabirdling, was convicted in Magistrate's Court here last week of squandering IL1,500 which she received through a teller's mistake while cashing a $5 check last week at the Bank Leumi's branch at Rehov Ben Yehuda 17.

Judge Hadassah Ben-Itto, in passing sentence, also ordered the woman to repay the bank and to sell a flight ticket to the U.S. which she purchased in a hasty attempt to leave the country after going on a spending spree.

Miss Zabirdling has been in Israel for eight months, supporting herself in part by singing in local night clubs.

Wearing a cream coat with fur collar and a white wool hat, she offered no explanation for her actions.

The trial of 21-year-old Armond Shabat, accused of helping Miss Zabirdling spend the money — stolen goods — was deferred until tomorrow.

israel: the overall solution

An Arab friend who wishes to remain anonymous recently called my attention to an Israeli problem which no one discusses. This Arab is not an enemy of our people although his idea of solving "the Palestine issue" never can become our platform.

My friend is sold on the idea that the Arab states ought to make peace with Israel — and on Israel's terms.

"The least expensive victory for the Arabs against Zionism", he said, "would be to make peace with the Jewish State."

And here is his explanation — plus the problem which it represents.

During our last conversation he showed me some statistics from Israeli newspapers (which he reads religiously), proving that the Arab way of life is bound to conquer the Jewish position on the territory of Israel. Today, he told me, the Jews are an overwhelming majority — but only today. The birth-rate among the Arabs is approximately thrice that within the Jewish population. True, the Arab birth-rate is just as high in the Arab countries. However, as a result of modern living conditions and concern of the Jewish State for the health of all its inhabitants, the mortality rate among Arabs in Israel is the lowest of any Arab community. Thus, according to the present rate, if the Jewish population in Israel should continue to grow normally, within thirty years or even less the Arabs living in Israel will cease to be a minority. Furthermore, because of opportunities offered them in the field of education, they will become the most enlightened Arab group righteously claiming, then, full equality with the Jews of Israel.

Thus, proclaims my Arab friend, the Jewish State will become an Arab-Jewish nation. And when one considers the fact that Israel is surrounded by a renascent Arab world, the question of assimilation into Arab culture also should be considered.

Ben Gurion was never clearer to me than after my conversation with this Arab. The Prime Minister of Israel ceaselessly stresses the fact that continuous immigration en masse of Jews into Israel and the colonization of the Negev by millions of Jews provide the answer to the problem of survival of the Jewish State. Of course, encouragement of large families among Jews also is part of the answer.

However, the real solution of the question of Jewish future in Israel lies in mass Aliyah. Perhaps the Zionist movement someday will call a world congress for Aliyah, at which no other issues will be discussed. For, no matter how much one may disagree with the aging Prime Minister of the Jewish State, his call to organize Jewish immigration as the primary Zionist task is, nevertheless, of vital importance.

ALL CANADA TO OBSERVE JEWISH MUSIC MONTH

Toronto (CJN).—This year Jewish Music Month will be celebrated in Canada from February 9th (Shabbath Shirah) to March 9th.

Jewish music has a message for all as an art medium and expression of Jewish living. Many have been inspired at synagogue services by the centuries-old melodic themes of our prayers. Others have enjoyed Jewish folk songs and Jewish melodies with their unmistakable, though perhaps undefinable, ties between the Jewish individual and the past and present of his People.

The Cultural Department of Canadian Jewish Congress has decided to earmark this year's allocation for Jewish Music Month Observance for commissioning one or two original works to be performed in 1964.

Various Programs To Be Featured

This year's Jewish Month will feature many programs sponsored and arranged by various congregations, organizations and communities. Among them three original works commissioned by congregations in Ontario are singled out:

● Beth Tzedec has commissioned a Sabbath morning sacred Service, Mizmor L'Shabbath, from the well known composer, Mr. Lazar Weiner of New York and has performed it at its Sabbath Service on January 12.

● Holy Blossom Temple will present the premiere performance of the newly published setting of the Friday evening liturgy by Mr. Ben Steinberg, music director of Holy Blossom, on Friday, March 15th.

● The Kitchener Beth Jacob Sisterhood has commissioned a "Concertino for Piano and Six Instruments" from the young Canadian composer, Mr. Alfred Kunz, a resident of Kitchener, in observance of Jewish Music Month and Brotherhood Week. The work will be performed at a recital including selections of Yiddish and Hebrew songs at the new Art Theater of Waterloo University on February 16th.

● Temple Sinai Congregation has announced four Friday night recitals open to the community at large featuring a Cantorial Service, Jewish songs and Art Music on February 1st, 15th, 22nd and March 1st. The February 1st recital will feature two compositions of Israeli composers and a work of John Weinzweig.

● The Third Festival of School and Youth Choirs under the joint sponsorship of the Bureau of Jewish Education and Canadian Jewish Congress, will take place on Sunday, March 3rd, in the auditorium of the Central Technical School, Harbord and Lippincott.

● The Farband and Y.M. and Y.W.H.A. choirs are planning special events in observance of Jewish Music Month. Adath Israel Congregation is sponsoring a concert on Thursday, February 28th. The Toronto Jewish Public Library will arrange an exhibit of books and Jewish music dedicated to Jewish Music Month Observance and sponsor a special event on February 9th. An Israeli Dance Festival of the youth will be presented under the sponsorship of the Y.M. and Y.W.H.A. Under the auspices of the BBYO, BBGO and AZA, a major event for the youth and young adults will be held on Saturday, February 16th, with the participation of two guest artists, Miss Malka Himmel, singer, and Mr. Eli Kassner, guitarist.

TO RECEIVE AWARD
Dr. Louis Finkelstein, Chancellor of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, has announced that Mr. Mark A. Levy (above) prominent Toronto business leader and philanthropist, will be the recipient of its Community Service Award at the Seminary's annual convocation to be held at Miami Beach Fla., on February 25.

EUGENE GERSTENMAIER, president of the Federal German Parliament, as he embarks from a plane in Israel, November 1962.

BONN ANNIVERSARY MESSAGE STRESSES DEBT TO JEWRY

By M. J. NURENBERGER

BONN. — On the thirtieth anniversary of the now infamous January thirtieth, when Adolph Hitler first assumed power, the West German government issued a message stressing the wrong done to the Jews.

Eugene Gerstenmaier, president of the Federal German Parliament, received me for seventy minutes. During the interview, he predicted that this year Germany will completely normalize diplomatic relations with Israel, despite an Arab blackmail which threatens to recognize East Germany if Bonn exchanges ambassadors with Israel.

GERMANS CONTRITE

Gerstenmaier and other prominent German government leaders told me:

"Germany knows the wrong never can be righted; the dead cannot be revived. But the German government and its people consider it their duty to continue reparations as they feel that the Germans must help the Jewish survivor and aid in the consolidation of the Jewish State."

Dr. Nahum Goldmann, who is in Bonn now, is negotiating for a new reparations deal. The new agreement may be for close to a thousand-million dollars.

GERMAN NEWSPAPERS CAUTION AGAINST NAZISM

Germany's foremost daily, Die Welt, states that the reparations deal is not terminated yet "It's a debt that must be paid."

Other German papers also are reviewing editorially the last thirty years. They caution against the remnants of Nazism and stress the fact that the East German government is ignoring completely Hitler's wrong to the Jews. They state also that West Germany accepts the guilt for the entire German people and are re-educating the young so that it never happens again.

The mood of the entire German press is soul searching. They repeatedly state that the reparations are not for the exterminated victims, since this crime cannot be repaid, but for the living so that the Jewish people may begin a new renascence with Germany's help.

AID FOR JEWISH DAY SCHOOLS

Montreal (JCNS), A study committee on Jewish education in Canada, which will attempt to tap further private and public sources of income for Jewish day schools, has been set up under chairmanship of Judge Harry Walsberg, of Sudbury, Ontario.

One difficulty facing the committee is that each of the ten Canadian provinces has its own educational problems and distinct organizations for coping with them. In addition, Canadian Jews are far from unanimous in their support for what they term "Jewish separate schools."

N.Y. JEWS TO STAGE SILENT DEMONSTRATION

New York, (JCNS) — Plans are being made for a mass stoppage of all work and activities for several hours by New York Jews, and to bring a million of them to a public square to stage a silent demonstration against the Soviet Union's treatment of its Jewish communities.

The planners have asked that their names or that of their organizations not be used so that the affair might not be identified with this or that group, but be looked upon as the united voice of all American Jewry. The planning group, it is reported, represents all shades of American Jewish opinion.

Call For Jewish Businesses To Close Shop

Subject to further discussion, the initial plans call for all Jewish businessmen to close their shops, offices and factories, and for all Jewish workers to halt their work and assemble at the meeting place, still to be chosen, to show their solidarity with the oppressed and accused Jews in the USSR.

According to the plans there will be no speeches, as such, at the demonstration which would be a silent, though powerful, mass manifestation towards the events in Russia. There also would be no resolution nor statements to the press The simple call would be for equal treatment of Jews, and for emigration of those who wish to leave the country.

It would also be made clear that the demonstration would not be an attempt to interfere in the internal affairs of the Soviet Union as the Russian member of the U.N. Sub-commission on Discrimination has charged during the current debate on the right of all people to leave their places of residence, and for reunion of families.

New Kosher Pens For Animals

New York, (JCNS).—The installation of newly-perfected pens to hold large animals in position for shechita has been jointly announced by the National Community Relations Advisory Council and the Synagogue Council of America. The pens are being installed by kosher meat packers. They have been given Halachic sanction, and have also been approved by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, as well as by major humane societies who will recommend th recently perfected pen.

HERUT VOTES FAVORING FACTION IN HISTADRUT

Jerusalem (JCNS).—By a large majority the Herut national conference meeting in Tel Aviv last week decided in favor of establishing a Herut faction within the Histadrut.

The issue evoked the stormiest debate and overshadowed all other matters on the agenda. Heated speeches inside the conference hall were accompanied by intensive lobbying in corridors. Delegates appeared to think that the future of the party depended on whether or not this move was made.

The division was largely between the party leadership which was in favor of the proposal, and the labor section which strongly opposed it. The decision was finally influenced by Mr. Menahem Begin, the Party leader who, in an eloquent speech, pressed for affiliation He said it would bring political victory nearer. He believed a Herut faction within the Histadrut together with the Liberals could oust Mapai's control of the Labor Federation.

Appeal to Liberals

Earlier, on Sunday, an appeal to the Liberal Party of Israel to join Herut and form a united parliamentary "bloc" was made by Mr. Begin, to the delegates representing the party's 180 branches.

Herut Policy

Outlining the main points of his party's policy, Mr. Begin said he would press for an abolition of military government over areas predominently inhabited by Arabs and campaign for the repeal of "the colonial Emergency Regulations."

Herut wanted these Regulations (which were promulgated by the British Mandatory regime) to be replaced by new legislation. The Emergency Regulations sanction the maintenance of military government where this is thought necessary for security reasons. Mr. Begin added that he did not see how the Prime Minister's claim that the abolition of military government would harm the nation's security.

An appeal was made to the Government to agree to a formal resolution for the reburial of the late Zeev Jabotinsky on Israeli soil.

Greetings were conveyed to the conference by Chief Rabbi Nissim, Mr. Mordechai Namir, Mayor of Tel Aviv, and Rabbi Arye Levin, of Jerusalem.

BREACH OF PROMISE

TEL AVIV (J'lem Post) — A 71-year-old man was arrested here the other day on suspicion of having extorted various sums of money from two widows on false promises of marriage.

The arrest was on the complaint of two widows from whom he had borrowed several hundred pounds for "joint expenses" after having promised to marry them. In both cases, he disappeared after receiving the money.

Police suspect that he may have perpetrated the same fraud on other women.

BANS JEWISH PAPERS

PARIS (J'lem Post) — Algerian Premiere Mohammed Ben Bella has imposed a ban on all Jewish newspapers of whatever language, it is learned here.

Babi Yar Now A Headache

London (CJN & JCNS) — It was as a result of an argument, led by Nikita Khrushchev, at an ideological conference in Moscow recently over the poem, Babi Yar, by Yevgeny Yevtushenko, that the latter has agreed, in his own words, to "add" to the poem.

The poem describes the massacre of Jews in a ravine near Kiev by the Germans and can be read as implying that anti-Semitism is still alive in the Soviet Union. The addition, it is believed, will tell how a Russian woman sacrificed her life to save two Jewish children.

Shostakovich Involved

The eminent Russian composer, Shostakovich, has been planning to use Babi Yar as the inspiration for his new Symphony No. 13. Now, however, the choral section will be amended to take in the Yevtushenko "addition". Because of this, a number of performances which were to have been given in Russia have been postponed.

The symphony will be performed in its revised version during the festival of Russian music to be held in London in September.

Book Shows Jews Renounced Faith

Moscow (JCNS).—A new booklet containing a series of letters in which Jews who are said to have been orthodox renounce their faith has been published by the Kishinev State Publishing House.

Entitled, "Onto a Bright Path," it contains contributions from men said to have been former rabbis or ministers and a few who were "Chairmen of Jewish religious communities and organisations.

Under the influence of reality, they declared, they had gradually arrived at the conclusion "that the decrepid religious beliefs of Judaism are incompatible with the dignity and interests of Soviet men, the builders of Communism."

One of the named contributors is said to be a former rabbi of Tiraspol, Isaac Volfovich Goligorsky. He is quoted as being particularly angry and disappointed by the festival of Purim. The essence of Purim rejoicing, he wrote, was the extination of tens of thousands of Persians because of a king's love for a Jewess.

REDS PRINT YIDDISH FOLK SONGS

Moscow, (JCNS), — One hundred-and fifty Jewish folk songs printed in Yiddish with a Russian translation are contained in a new publication, "Jewish Folk Songs', which has just appeared here.

The book has been compiled by a Jewish composer named Beregouski and includes a "scientific" introduction on the history of Jewish folk-song, together with a section of notes.

However, the Soviet authorities do not seem to envisage a wide circulation for the volume. Only 1,555 copies have been printed and there is no indication that it will be offered for general sale. The assumption must be that this is another attempt to "window-dress" the Jewish cultural situation in the Soviet Union in the face of charges of discrimination.

BETH TZEDEC ENJOYS MOST SUCCESSFUL SEASON OF YOUTH ACTIVITIES

Many out standing projects have been conducted at Beth Tzedec Synagogue in the field of Youth Activities. Two new groups have been formed since September. Club Ramah, the only club of its kind in the city, is a Hebrew speaking group of boys and girl 12 to 14 whose aim is to continue the fine Camp Ramah programme in a city setting. The group meets early sabbath morning and follows up its club meeting by attending the services of the Youth Congregation. At present the group is preparing a Hebrew playlet for a forthcoming Parents night.

The second group established this season is "Atid" the College Age arm of the United Synagogue of America. Beth Tzedec Atid was the first, in Canada, to receive its charter and is one of the strongest groups going. At the recent International Kinus the 7 Beth Tzedec representatives distingushed themselves by their keen interest in the Torah sessions and their able leaderships in the workshops. Beth Tzedec Atid will take part in a forthcoming Torah Study Institute with Dr. Abraham Heschel, Professor of Mysticism and Theology at the Jewish Theological Seminary Atid is also in the midst of preparing 2 programmes, one for the School for Retarded Children in Orillia and the other for a local Orphanage.

United Synagogue Youth has reached new heights this season. The fine cultural base of the group has been broadened and many exhilerating programmes have been carried out, most recently a talk on "Israel and the Nations of Africa and Asia" given by Steven Lewis and illustrated with slides. USY has just completed work on the Toronto Jewish Youth Council's Book Drive to aid Miles College, a negro campus in Alabama. Beth Tzedec USY collected over 600 books of the total of 1400 books collected. The senior chapter in USY, Club Balagan, is preparing a party for underprivileged children within the city. The theme of USY for this year is "Prayer and the Prayerbook". It was explored in depth at the recent International Convention in Chicago at which Beth Tzedec Youth played a leading role.

"Chevra', the Junior Clubs at Beth Tzedec have just completed a film based on the book of "Genesis". The entire film was written and directed by the children who are also the "movie stars". The making of scenery and costumes as well as selecting background music were further responsibilties of the children. A recent one-day Winter Camp proved most entertaining. The theme of this month's programme is "The Dead Sea Scrolls".

Under the capable leadership of its Executive and Board, the Youth Congregation has flourished. A meaningful service serves to spiritually inspire all who attend.

Five other young people's congregations lead by the Junior Congregation round out the Youth Programme. A recent essay contest on the theme of "Why I attend Sabbath Services" illustrated the profound effect the Synagogue programme is having on the young people who take part.

The activities geared for youth at Beth Tzedec are diversified yet all aim towards one goal — a fuller and more meaningful expression of Jewish values.

IT WON'T WORK

There is a new numbers game which will eventually involve each and every one of us. It is called ANC and has been invented by the telephone company. ANC stands for All Number Calling and it is another way of reducing us to computations. But it won't work.

The telephone company may well drop all the prefixes to the phone numbers like CApital and FRanklin and replace them with digits. When Mr. 3678962 calls up Miss 4703118 by dialing 2244831 and tells her he has his car 3456098 paid for, enough money in his bank account No. 82436 to finance a honeymoon, that his policy 12131489 is paid in full at 20 years and that added to his Social Security No. 11200876 will provide for her in case of death, Miss 4703118 will still breathe — Y-E-S and it is nice to know there are still a few archaic letters around in this brave new world of computers.

NO ADVICE WANTED

A young fellow here worked hard his first year at college, a good student. To tide himself over the summer, he took a job as a busboy. He didn't care what he did for three months as long as he saved a little money for the college year.

But he liked busboying so well, he doesn't want to quit. He says the girls in the restaurant are brisk and friendly and ask him all sorts of academic questions and he feels more at home with them than he ever did with co-eds. He also invests $5 a week on the numbers and says he wins. Anyway, he looks happy and does not want to listen to any advice.

HUMAN RELATIONS

Jealous Sister

DR. ROSE N. FRANZBLAU

QUESTION: I have been happily married for over 25 years. I have a married son and another boy who will be confirmed in a few months.

This will be a most eventful day for my family. But my sister, who is a most unhappy person and who tries to make everyone's life miserable, told me that if I invite a very special friend of mine whom I am extremely fond of, she will not attend the party.

This puts me in a very precarious position. How does one handle a situation of this nature?

ANSWER: In all likelihood, this is not the first time that your sister has issued an ultimatum or threat. In all likelihood, too, the family (and perhaps you, in particular) have given in to her wishes because you felt sorry for her.

Because you are a happy person and have been given so much by life, you felt that you could give in to your sister's demands even when they were unreasonable and inappropriate.

Like a child who is permitted to misbehave and is never reprimanded or stopped, your sister has probably become increasingly demanding. At this point, however, she is demanding that she be stopped.

In a reprimand from her loved ones and an absolute refusal to meet her impossible demand this time, she will have proof that you all ready care enough to stop her for her own good.

By her timing and the person chosen around whom to wage the battle, the attacker tells about herself and the drive that makes her misbehave. The competition with you, her sister, that may have been normal in childhood has evidently been continued into your adult lives.

She is jealous of your friends and even of your son, around whom much planning for the coming joyous celebration is going on. By intruding her wishes she acts as if she, and not he, were the guest of honor.

Paradoxical though it may sound, she also acts as if she were you, the one who makes up the guest list and decides who is to be invited and who is to be left out. By giving you commands and making demands, she also acts as if she were your mother.

Playing all these roles, she pulls herself apart and alienates everyone.

You must tell her what she really wants to be told, namely, that the only people who will have anything to say about who is to be invited to the confirmation are you, your husband and your child. You can also tell her that since there will be a large group, you will seat her so that she will not have to come in close contact with this woman, but that you expect her to extend a polite greeting if they should meet.

Your sister may be furious and tell you that she will not attend the function. You can say to her that the door will always be open for her to change her mind and attend, even at the last minute. Make it clear that she will be welcomed happily and lovingly whenever she comes.

To give in to your sister would be to lose a cherished friend for no good reason and to keep your sister a lost soul. The other course may lead to a healthier relationship on her part, both with friends and family.

KUPATH RAMBAN REP IN TORONTO

As the guest of Rabbi Zvi Rubinstein, Mordecai Deutsh, secretary-general of Kupath Ramban Colel Polen of Jerusalem, will be in Toronto this coming week to help organize a committee of leading citizens for the purpose of strengthening the Institute which he represents. At the request of religious and community leaders in Canada and the United States, he will visit key cities in both countries in order to establish a stronger relationship between American Jewry and the long established Kupath Ramban Colel Polel which is fully recognized by the government of Israel and supervised by the Ministry of Social Welfare.

Established 105 years ago when Eastern European immigration to Palestine was at a peak, the Kupath Ramban Colel Polen was created originally in Warsaw, Poland, by prominent religious and community leaders of Poland, Rumania and Galicia. In order to support and maintain Eastern European immigrants who journeyed to Palestine at the time when the country still was under Turkish rule, supporters of the Institute fostered the tradition of making contributions before blessing the Sabbath candles and to mark the various occasions families were celebrating.

Fifty-years ago the Kupath Ramban Colel Polen established special quarters in Jerusalem known as "Batey Warsaw" (Warsaw House) which helped settle 125 families. Presently the "Batey Warsaw" houses over 300 families. Plans are being formulated to expand these facilities in order to help immigrants from all parts of the world. In addition to housing, the Institute arranges special interest free loan funds of up to one-thousand Israeli pounds to needy families and extends assistance to those who wish to become self-supporting and to integrate into the life of the country.

ORGANIZES TORONTO BRANCH

At the initial meeting in Toronto of the Canadian Friends of the Alliance Israelite Universelle, which took place Saturday evening, January 19th, at the F.L.Z.O. Center, 14 Viewmount Avenue, and sponsored by the Sephardi Congregation, Mr. Samuel J. Kelner was guest speaker.

Mr. Kelner first became aware of the important work being accomplished by the Alliance — which has been established for over one hundred years throughout France, North Africa, the Mediterranean, Levant and Middle East countries including Israel — when he visited Morocco during the tragic earthquake in Agadir in which many Jewish inhabitants lost their lives.

Many of those who were present at the meeting originate from Morocco; they have received their basic education in Alliance schools and are, therefore, familiar with the noble work undertaken by them. Hence Mr. Kelner's invitation for membership to Canadian Friends Of the Alliance met with a one hundred per cent response.

Headquarters of the organization are in Montreal. It is hoped that a committee in Toronto for the enlistment of "Friends" will be organized. Communal response will not conflict with other important campaigns, while the dignified tradition and conservative application of Alliance fund raising will be maintained.

The presentation of a film "Alliance Israelite Universelle', was shown, depicting its work in education and welfare in Morocco.

ADATH ISRAEL ON TOP

By Ruben Alexander

Chicago, (CJN)—The stage was set. It was one of the dramatic moments at the action packed 12th International Convention of United Synagogues in Chicago, which was held recently. Tension ran high as professionals and delegates alike nervously eyed the award banquet dais.

Then it happened. Like a bolt from the blue, Toronto's Adath Israel Congregation, one of the largest Conservative Congregations in Canada, suddenly catapulted into North American prominence: it was being given one of the most coveted tributes, a national award.

Adath Israel was selected from more than 700 congregations in North America for its pioneering achievement with the USY Institute of Jewish Studies Home Study Progra.. and its novel offshoot, the monthly Rosh Chodesh Seminar. (Though this program was formed initially for Adath Israel, it now has been developed into one of the most popular regional activities).

Pandemonium reigned. The 54-man Canadian delegation proudly led the cheers that followed; the Adath Israel delegation froze into stunned ecstacy as 1300 delegates applauded. Alan Appelbaum, president of the senior chapter, Ruach, accepted on behalf of the congregation. This was a unique award since it was the first of its kind to be given to any congregation.

THREE INDIVIDUAL AWARDS

In addition to the congregational award, three Adath Israel USYers received individual high standard prizes: Alan Appelbaum, Dennis Newman and Gail Tinianov. They were recipients of these tributes for: five hours minimum weekly study in Judaica under guidance of rabbi or educator; participating in the planning of chapter activities by serving on, at least, two committees, acting as chairman of a committee, serving on the board of the chapter or being a chapter officer; attending a minimum of four Sabbath services monthly; being present at 80% of chapter functions; attending at least 50% of all inter-chapter or regional functions.

TORONTONIANS PRESENT

The Adath Israel group present at the convention consisted of: Alan Appelbaum, Lawrence Bedder, Bonnie Greenspoon, Rhonda Nixon, Freidel Starkman, Sid Treister and Dennis Newman. Mrs. Beatrice Solomon served as adviser. Pesach Schindler, educational director, led the Canadian delegation, served on the convention executive and led five study sessions and workshops. At present the delegation is preparing a report to be published soon. Rabbi Erwin Schild, spiritual leader of Adath Israel, has been with the congregation since 1947.

EILAT MAYOR IN TORONTO

Joseph Levy, 37-year-old mayor of Eilat, Israel, will be in Toronto from February 18th through the 20th. He will address a canvassers' meeting on February 20th, on behalf of the Histadrut Campaign.

Born in Cairo, Mr. Levy migrated to Israel in 1952, where he settled in Eilat, the new seaport on the Red Sea at the southernmost tip of the Negev. In 1959 he became mayor.

From several hundred families, Eilat has grown to a city of 10,000. With access to Africa and Asia, it is of importance for Israel's future.

TORONTO JEWISH COMMUNITY ALL OUT FOR U.J.A.

Pleased with pledge increases announced at the Crown Gifts Luncheon of the United Jewish Appeal Women's Division are (left to right) hostess Mrs. Harry Hershoran; special guest, Mrs. Yaacov Herzog, wife of Israel's Ambassador to Canada; and Women's Division Chairman, Mrs. John R. Devor.

Mrs. Yaacov Herzog, wife of Israel's Ambassador to Canada, warned the Leadership of the UJA Women's Division that the recent upsurge of immigration into Israel, the greatest since 1948, threatens Israel's future.

Mrs. Herzog was addressing the Crown Gifts Luncheon of the Women's Division of the United Jewish Appeal at the home of Mrs. Harry Hershoran. She said the scope of the immigration was so great that the cost of absorbing and restraining newcomers threatened Israel's economy.

"When you make your pledge to UJA," she said, "you must take into consideration the economic strain on Israel. Bringing 60,000 immigrants into the country in 1963 will not be enough unless full absorption can be consumated. Bringing them to Israel is not fulfilling responsibility and it will be an ironic gesture unless you see the job through."

Women's Division Chairman, Mrs. John R. Devor, told the pace-setting group who responded with generous increases in their pledges that in addition to the needs at home. "Jewish education for children, supplementary financial assistance for over 500 Jewish families presently on relief, capital programs for recreational and educational institutions, the Jewish Public Library and health and welfare services for immigrants," she said, "all of these depend on the help that comes through monies raised in the United Jewish Appeal.

The Women's Division objective for 1963 is $330,000. Mrs. Devor said that in order to reach this objective the Division would have to work harder and show greater increases than ever before.

"Bells are ringing." More than 1,200 woman-hours will ring 7,500 telephone bells during Operation Telethon. The Women's Division of the United Jewish Appeal will make the 7,500 calls on successive Sundays, February 24th and March 3, from the main offices of the Toronto-Dominion Bank at Yonge and King Streets to solicit contributions to the annual United Jewish Appeal campaign.

Mrs. Wolfe Goldberg, Chairman of Operation Telethon, expressed her gratitude to the Toronto-Dominion Bank for their generosity in allowing the use of their battery of telephones for this operation. Said she: "This is a particularly important campaign during which we must raise more money than ever before to meet the ever-increasing needs of Jews in Europe, Israel and in our own community." She urged all women to keep their lines clear so they could respond with generous pledges.

Associate Chairmen of the operation are Mrs. Jacob Finkelman, Mrs. William Kagan, Mrs. Irving Pearl and Mrs. Harry Shapiro.

Supervisors are Mrs. I. Bell, Mrs. M. L. Clavir, Mrs. Pearl Dover, Mrs. David Gould, Mrs. H. M. Greenspan, Mrs. J. Gross, Mrs. G. Killan, Mrs. J. Levenson, Mrs. Herbert Orliffe, Mrs. William Pape, Miss Kay Perlmutter, Mrs. A. W. Platt, Mrs. A. Polan, Mrs. Schwartz, Mrs. Harold Seigel, Mrs. William Seigel, Mrs. A. G. Volpe, and Mrs. J. C. Zacks.

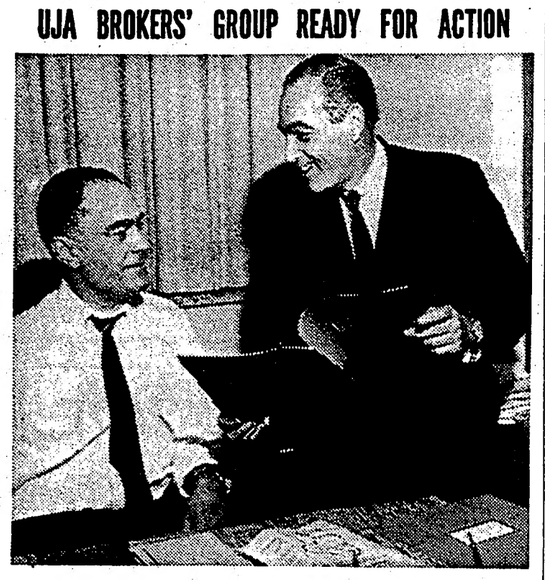
UJA BROKERS' GROUP READY FOR ACTION



Hardworking, Co-Chairmen of the 1963 United Jewish Appeal Brokers' Group are Albert Waxer (l) and Albert ALLISON, seen here planning the cocktail party-meeting that will launch their group's activity in the Campaign. The meeting is scheduled for 4 p.m. Tuesday, February 12, at the King Edward Hotel. Brokers will be informed of the local overseas and Israel needs and what effort they must put into the Campaign to see that sufficient U.J.A. funds are raised to meet these needs.

IN THE KNOW

During his student days at the University of Pennsylvania ,the late Dr. Emil G. Hirsch resided at a small boarding house. The proprietor, an immigrant Jew by the name of Abram Silverman, was in the habit of waiting on the table.

One morning Hirsch came down late for breakfast and, fearful of missing a class, wanted immediate service — but Silverman was not there. Impatiently Hirsch, addressed Mrs. Silverman:

"Where is your husband?"

"He is upstairs laying tephilin."

"He lays tephilin!" countered Hirsch. "He should be laying eggs."

LEGAL

Sam Cohen, the new arrival at the frat-house, was boasting about his father, an amateur magician. "There are many things which you would consider absolutely impossible and yet my father is able to do them," said Sam.

Morris Goldberg interrupted. "Now wait a minute. I'll bet my father could do something your father can't. For instance, he married one-hundred women."

"A hundred women!" exclaimed Sam. "That's impossible!"

"That's perfectly possible with my father," said Goldberg. "He is a rabbi."

MUST SHARE MORAL RESPONSIBILITY

THE DUTY TO AID

Diaspora participation in the Jewish State rests on two main pillars: material and political aid on the one hand and a sharing of moral responsibility. The two forms are interdependent. Aid without a sense of participation and a critical understanding becomes charity demoralizing to all concerned; but criticism without aid would be unthinkable. The ideal would be a far greater volume of aid than at present, and heightened critical awareness. The annual U.J.A. appeal is the proper time to stress the duty to aid an essential part of the bargain.

With so many urgent calls on the Israeli public purse it is difficult to distinguish the most urgent, but housing certainly comes high on the list of priorities. Computed on a yearly basis, immigration is the great unknown, but it can quite be assumed that during the next few years the influx of immigrants from those countries which have capriciously turned on and off the tap of emigration in recent years is likely to continue in much the same manner. When the trickle of immigrants grows into a stream the need to develop new urban areas and build more houses becomes obvious. Less obvious at first sight but no less essential is to take full advantage of relative lulls to deal with the backlog, the residues from earlier waves still in camps or old Arab houses, and the generation of immigrants who have grown to marrying age in Israel without being capable of solving their own housing problems. Greater finance for the basic necessity of housing can justifiably be sought from Diaspora Jewry.

Another urgent need is the continued intensification of agriculture in order to provide full employment and a desirable level of incomes for the right number of people and to ensure competitive exports. This requires considerable investment, particularly in large-scale water schemes and "running-in" costs to carry the settlers and settlement schemes through their first difficult years. The vitally necessary Jordan water scheme, which is to carry water from north to south is one object of heavy financial outlay among many. The recent appearance in foreign markets of Israeli fresh fruit and vegetables, which are rapidly winning a reputation equal to those of citrus, is a reminder that given the investment, results can be expected.

In addition to economic and social costs occasioned by immigration, Israel is faced with growing outlay in hard currency on modern, indeed ultra-modern, armaments. Israel has no choice but to keep up with the Arabs in acquisition of up-to-date weapon systems, so long as the Arabs have the avowed aim of destroying Israel. There were people who in good faith ignored the explicit threats of "Mein Kampf"; it would be nothing short of criminal irresponsibility to ignore the threats made by Arab leaders who have shown themselves ruthless in their treatment of their own citizens and rival Arab leaders alike and who have widely issued the Arabic translation of "Mein Kampf" as a manual of political indoctrination. The complexity and cost of modern arms is increasing; the Arabs can acquire them, thanks to Soviet deliveries on credit, while the economic burdens associated with rearmament are mitigated by lavish American and West German aid. Israel has the right to expect Jews who live in the safety of the West to shoulder some of the other economic burdens so that the State may be better able to meet the heavy defence costs.

These are three of the many considerations to be borne in mind when responding to the United Jewish Appeal. Members of our community, who walk in freedom, security and affluence can find no better and more practical way of expressing gratitude for their good fortune than by giving in generous measure commensurate with the needs and their ability.

RUSSIA AND AMERICA

WHO IS AHEAD IN SPACE?

In a sensational interview with the London Daily Telegraph, Sir Bernard Lovel, one of the greatest scientists in the Commonwealth, answered one of the most perplexing questions of our times. Britain's foremost spokesman on space affairs candidly gave his views on relative Russian and American progress.

Here are some quotations from the questions and answers:

Q. — You said in August that Russia is a master of space in the military sense. Do you still think so?

A. — Perhaps I could just recapitulate what I hope I said, because I don't think my opinions have greatly changed over the relative status of the Americans and the Russians in space. Everything that has happened over the past few years indicates that the Russians still have a considerable degree of superiority in what one could call sheer rocketry. I don't mean in numbers, but in the type of rockets they can produce and fire.

Their superiority arises because they have the ability to launch enormous payloads into very precise orbits. This has been repeatedly demonstrated in the precision with which they launched Luniks II and III in 1959 and Vostoks III and IV in 1962. I'm not saying that the Russians haven't had failures. The Americans say they have and I think it is very likely that they have. Nevertheless they have succeeded in doing these precise launchings with extremely heavy vehicles.

Unfortunately my comments on the relative status of the Russians and Americans in space have sometimes been truncated at that point. But I have always gone on to emphasise that that is only one part of the story.

Although the Russians may have this superiority purely in the sense of rocketry, the Americans have tremendous superiority over the Russians in their ability to instrument their space vehicles and in the extraction of space information.

If you made an assessment of the scientific information we have obtained about the earth's environment from space vehicles, you could find that this was very heavily biased in favour of the Americans. They have mounted more sophisticated experiments in their satellites and space probes and they have made them work much better.

Q. — Can you hazard a guess as to who is ahead in space?

A. — I think that if you are looking, say, three years ahead, and unless there are some unexpected developments on the Russian side, it is quite likely that by 1965 the American developments, which are going ahead very fast indeed, will have achieved some kind of parity with the Russians.

It may be that at this particular moment the Russians are ahead, but I don't think it confers any particular military advantage over the Americans. Before they are likely to be in such a position, I think the Americans will have caught up with them because of this greater ability in the instrumentation of their vehicles, and also the known developments which have taken place in the United States.

Obviously, expenditure in the United States is a wide indication of their intentions. The estimated cost of astronautics in this fiscal year is nearly $ 4,400 millions. This is equal to their expenditure on conventional aeronautics. Moreover the curve of the expenditure on aeronautics is flattening out, whereas the astronautics curve is steadily rising. We don't know what this situation is in Russia.

Our comment — two verses from two great poets — Sandburg and Frost.

Sandburg:

Beyond the ball of earth are other balls,
also double balls, triple balls, series of balls,
and balloons, drums, cylinders, triangles, jugs,
some with handles identified and signed,
others with anonymous sprockets and axles — ....

Frost:

The Universe is but the Thing of things,
The things but balls all going round in rings,
Some of them mighty huge, some mighty tiny,
All of them radiant and mighty shiny.
They mean to tell us all was rolling blind
Till accidentally it hit on mind....

Miami Beach Blues

The seasonal exodus from New York to Miami Beach is in full swing, although on a smaller scale than previous years. According to the experts, the Cuban crisis, the unpredictable stock market, and the cold spell are responsible for the Miami Beach hotelier's blues. According to many travel agents, Miami Beach has passed its zenith, and is declining. The young and smart sets either go on cruises or book a 17-day Southern Europe jet holiday. There are too many "senior citizens" on the Beach, it is being said, to make it attractive for the young-and-fast.

Gradually the hotels catering for the retired are advancing uptown. Now the entire section below Beach 20th Street is "as Jewish as Tel Aviv," according to the maitre d'hotel of one of the hotels on the border line. He referred to the Downtown Beach as "the most cheerful Moshav Zekeinim in the world."

Fontainebleau Yeshiva

"Lobby hopping" is the favourite evening Beach sport. This year there is no new addition to the three or four regally resplendent and nouveau riche décor lobbies of the Fontainebleau type. The present architectural attraction on the Beach is the fabulous new building of the Miami Hebrew Academy, one of the foremost U.S. Jewish Day Schools. Designed by Morris Lapidus, the architect of the Fontainebleau Hotel, the building is known as The Fontainebleau Yeshiva, although it has no luxury features. A three-unit glass structure that allows the brilliant Miami sun to flood the air-conditioned classrooms, the Hebrew Academy has an enrolment of 370 boys and girls (in the ratio of 60:40), attending classes leading from the nursery through the "college prep" level. Built at a cost of $1,200,000, the Academy is the pride of the Beach.

Like most Jewish Day Schools the Hebrew Academy started with vision, hope and sacrifice. The "visionary," Rabbi Alexander S. Gross, began the school with a kindergarten and first grade in 1947. "We started with fifteen children in a vacant Methodist Church building," he recalls. "As we grew, we spread out into an abandoned garage next door." Then came rented quarters in the Y.M.H.A. and, after some more growth, a remodelled private home.

Although there is a recent trend among Jewish Federations to extend sudsidies to Jewish Day Schools, the Greater Miami Federation evinces only antagonism to the Academy, regarded as a model school in the community at large. A few days before my visit to the school, Rabbi Gross received a letter from Arthur S. Rosichan, Executive Director of the Greater Miami Federation, requesting that the Israeli flag, which flies side by side with the U.S.A. flag at the Academy entrance, be taken down.

According to Mr. Rosichan "all of us ought to recognise that the flag is a symbol of the State of Israel and the Hatikvah is the national anthem of the State of Israel." Indignant at this "creeping assimilationism," Rabbi Gross has no intention either of taking down the blue-and-white flag with the Magen David or discontinuing the singing of the Hatikvah.

"The Miami Beach Daily Sun," describing the Academy building, reported that "in this strange and beautiful school everything has been changed from the black-and-white of old; even the blackboards are no longer black but of softly shaded colours to blend with individual classroom colour schemes. The hall walls are brilliantly tiled in decorative designs. Through all the delicate colour tones that blend beige and dusty pinks and sunshine yellow, runs a note of soft-hazy bright Israeli blue."

CANADIAN PANORAMA

By MORDECAI HIRSHENSON

● "La ravissante Miss Canada accepte le prince charmant" is the heading, and the sub-caption reads. "Connie-Gail Feller epouse Nathaniel Salomon". Following this story-book introduction. Le Droit of Ottawa and Hull gives the story of the marriage of Ottawa Jewry's favorite daugnter to the son of the late "M. Moe Salomon et de Mme. Salomon de Montreal".
Miss Feller (now Mrs. Salomon) will be remembered as the prize-winner of the Miss Canada contest who forfeited the prize, some say, because she would not honor certain obligations that conflicted with the Jewish High Holy Days.

BAR-MITZVAH — NOW OLD IS IT?

● Which Ontario provincial newspaper do you read for your historical data on the bar-mitzvah as an institution?

Recently the Timmins Press, reporting a local Jewish affair, captioned its story with the words: BAR MITZVAH DATES BACK TO THE TIME OF ABRAHAM.

The Galt Reporter, however, more conservative than its northern contemporary, mentioned (also while reporting a similar occasion) that the ceremony has been repeated "by 13-year-olds of the faith since the 14th century".

Which of the two estimates is correct — 600 years or 4,000?

Actually, both estimates are right. As a formal ceremony, the bar-mitzvah became institutionalized in Germany in the fourteenth century of the Christian era. The tradition of the significance of the 13th year, however, is much older and is traced by some to Abraham's breaking of his father's idols at that age.

One thing is certain: the bar-mitzvah now has been recognized by Ontario's regional press. Both papers gave a detailed account of every step in the ceremony, in both liturgical and social.

The newspapers unfortunately have fallen also into the trap of giving every "new-fangled" development some traditional meaning. Regarding the "candle-lighting ceremony" (invented by our bar-mitzvah caterers, no doubt), the item says: "Fourteen candles were lit, each bearing a special significance."

THE MENORAH — IN HUNGARIAN

● How many of Toronto's Jews know that in addition to a press in English and Yiddish the community possesses a Jewish weekly in the Magyar (Hungarian) language? From its Hebraic title, MENORAH, one would not suspect its ethnic flavor but, aside from its name, the contents are wholly in the Hungarian language.

In the upper right hand corner appears a familiar quotation in Hebrew letters, but what non-Hungarian would ever guess that the words "milyen csodalatosan szep hatestvehek bekes egyertesban elnek" are the equivalent of the well known line "Hinay mah tov" ("how goodly it is for brethren to live together in unity!")

The Menorah's editor, Mr. G. Egri, is quite perturbed by a story carried recently in WORLD PICTURE NEWS (VILAGHIRADO), a Toronto Hungarian Publication. In its Christmas issue this periodical displayed with obvious sympathy a photograph of a banner being presented to a Hungarian athlete living in the USA, Istvan Serenyi by name. The banner contained the Arrow Cross.

Less known outside of Hungary than the swastika, the Arrow-Cross is that country's exact equivalent of the dread Nazi symbol of murder and terror. Mr Egry is quite justifiably perturbed at this demonstration of pro-Fascist preference on the part of vilaghiradó whose publisher and editor are Lazlo Kalman and Szilvaszy Jalini respectively. (The latter's book store on Spadina Avenue, incidentally, has various anti-Semitic books and periodicals on sale). Having seen the tragic work of Nazi-Fascism in their home country, Toronto's Hungarian Jews are understandably disturbed by any signs of its recurrence or resurgence here.

The road not taken

By ROBERT FROST

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveller, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same.

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I —
I took the one less travelled by,
And that has made all the difference.

After a lingering illness, Robert Frost, American poet laureate and friend of Jew, succumbed this past Wednesday at the age of 88.

SERMON OF THE WEEK

A SENSE OF COMPASSION

It is interesting to examine the great personalities of the Bible to discover in each of them the single quality which stands out as the dominating feature in his character. Thus, with Abraham it is his unshakeable faith in God which gives direction and meaning to everything he does. In the case of Moses, it is his limitless love for the people he led. With the tragic figure of Samson, it is his loud pride in his personal strength which is the ruling motive in his life. Now if we can engage in this exercise with the Bible's heroes, we can do the same with its villains. Let us take the case of Pharaoh.

Which aspect of his character stands out above all others and explains his dealings with Israel? The Bible is in no doubt what it is. It is his hardness of heart. Pharaoh is described as a cruel, merciless and unpitying tyrant. His heart was hard, so he was incapable of feeling sympathy for the sufferings of others. This was his sin - his hardness of heart.

In the comprehensive scheme of Jewish ethical teaching we have a phrase for this. In Hebrew we call it Immuts halev. It is familiar from the frequent reference to it in the list of confessions during Yom Kippur: Al chet shechatanu lefanecha b'immuts halev. "We acknowledge the sins committed against Thee in hardening our heart". This is the great sin which describes a heart which is cold and insensitive to a fellow's suffering. This is not the heart of a man, but the heart of a Pharaoh.

What is the virtue which is the opposite to the sin of hardening the heart? It is the virtue we call compassion or the great Jewish ethic of rachmanut. It is a value which needs to be recaptured today and applied in world affairs, but it is even more urgently needed in our own personal daily life in relation to all living things. For life is full of suffering. Look around and see. One suffers pains of the body, another is hurt by the pain of the mind: the heart is of a third aches with lonliness and a fourth is tormented with remorse. Still another is haunted by the sense of pointlessness and lives out his life in quiet desperation. This is the tragic fact of life the actuality of Tsa'ar ba'alei Chayim the anguish of everything that lives, and in one shape or another no one can entirely escape it.

But when we see the truth in this, what do we learn? Surely this, that if all things suffer then all things stand in need of pity. A man must therefore have rachmanut on everyone and everything. The famous Italian Jewish scholar of the last century, S. D. Luzatto, taught that this was the very core of Judaism.

But in all this there is a pointer to something wonderful. For what happens when we show pity? We momentarily share the life of a fellow being. In accepting another's pain as our own we become new people, for the time being living on a higher level of brotherly love. Indirectly too, it helps us to see that we are not alone in our own suffering; for the world is full of it. Of course, a selfish person cannot pity because he cannot concern himself with anyone else. A stupid person cannot pity because he lacks imagination. Only a healthy mind and a strong soul can show the quality of compassion.

So in our estimation of those around us, do not tell about the great financier and man of wealth who has succeeded in reaching the very top of the economic ladder. Do not even talk about the great men of science and letters who dazzle the world with their intellectual brilliance and worldly wisdom. But tell first how they treat their subordinates, how they talk to those less successful than themselves, how they act in the face of the sorrow and troubles of their fellow man. Say something first about those things, then we will know the essentials to which everything else is secondary.

The Bible describes God as El rachum v'chanun, compassionate and gracious, a God who is full of love and pity for the world, a God who sees our sufferings and understands our needs. This concept of a "Merciful God" has influenced the growth of the Jewish ethical character and we find the Jews described as "merciful children of a merciful Father". Let us jealously guard that title of eminence, for it indicates that there is nobility in compassion, strength in mercy and true greatness in the quality of pity.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

LEMON-BUTTER BROILED HALIBUT STEAKS

Preheat broiler. Melt ¼ cup butter in saucepan and blend in juice of 1 lemon and 1 tsp of the grated rind, ¼ tsp. paprika, ½ tsp. dried mint leaves.

Arrange 3 halibut steaks (1½ to 2 pounds) on greased preheated broiler pan. Brush top of each steak with a little of the lemon butter. Season each with salt and pepper.

Broil 2 to 3 inches from source of heat about 3 minutes. Turn steaks.

Brush again with the lemon butter mixture and season with salt and pepper Broil another 3 to 5 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork — about 10 minutes total cooking time per inch thickness of fish.

Serve at once with remaining lemon butter poured over top. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Note: 1 tblsp. finely minced parsley plus 1 tsp. worcestershire sauce may be used instead of the mint if desired.

WHAT NEXT?

By RUTHIE

The National Institute of Mental Health in Bethesda, Md., has devised an instrument-laden crib to study the beginnings of exploratory behavior in infants. Inside this device, facing a projection screen set at a 60-degree angle, the baby is placed in a big canvass seat. He's held by a strap across the chest, though his hands and feet are free. A stainless steel sphere, four inches across, lies in front of him. When he touches this, a continuous-loop movie projector is set off, producing brightly colored geometric figures against a black background.

A TV camera, mounted in the ceiling of the crib, and a microphone over the baby's head transmit his gurglings to the operator and a tape recorder. The baby's reaction is photographed from the TV screen. Mommy helps to put him into the crib and then goes to the control room to watch him on TV.

According to Institute officials, exploratory behaviour is clearly apparent in human infants by the time they're three months old.

All this is wonderful, and even a layman like me can see how advantageous this is to combat, even anticipate, certain problems from scratch. However, while our eminent scientists are at it, I can think of other things they can explore.

For instance, when my husband comes home from the doctor's after his usual checkup and tells me he must lose weight, confine his smoking to cigars (ugh!), get plenty of rest, walk instead of using the car so much — why won't he? Why should n't he cooperate? He'll throw the dieting right smack at me. Sure, I know the calorie-counting is up to me. I must serve him the proper foods faithfully and attractively. Then, when the excess blubbler doesn't melt off, it's my fault. And why? Because I don't follow his every footstep when he's away from home. How am I supposed to know that, between meals, he drinks gobs of coffee, consumes tons of rich "goo" at luncheon-meetings, has a shnaapsl (tumbler of whisky) with the boys?

He's conscientious about smoking, alright. You should see how high his cigar expense has risen! But what the guileless doctor doesn't know is: he smokes cigarets between.

And resting? At that he's an expert. When it comes to hearing a baby cry at night, dynamite couldn't move him.

Walking? Don't be silly, we live in the twentieth century.

So, dear doctor, please explore my man's mind so I'll know how to keep him alive longer than the three-score-ten.

CLANTON PARK SYNAGOGUE

● Last Saturday evening, Clanton Park Synagogue celebrated "A Night In Israel".

To carry out the decor, hosts were garbed as Arabs, Israeli folksongs were the dominating source of entertainment, refreshments, including "felafel", were served by 'El-Al" hostesses, games and bingo were played.

The evening's draw was a trip for two to Europe and Israel.

ADATH ISRAEL CONGREGATION

● On Thurday, February 7th, Rabbi Erwin Schild will discuss: "Stories, Homilies and Comments of the Ancient Rabbis.

In this Adath Israel Adult Study Series, Rabbi Schild will outline the teachings of the sages in the Talmud and Midrash.

● United Synagogue Youth and Pre U.S.Y.ers held a Youth Weekend recently at Adath Israel. Israeli dances, Shabbat games, songs and skits were featured at an Oneg Shabbat.

● An award in recognition of the Adath Israel's efforts in educational programing was awarded the congregation at the recent U.S.Y. National Convention in Chicago. It was presented by Arthur Siggner, chairman of the United Synagogue Youth Commission, at the Sabbath morning services.

● At a meeting of the Board of Ner Israel Yeshiva College of Toronto. Mr. Meyer Lebovic, former chairman of the Board at Ner Israel was elected president for 1963, succeeding Mr. H. Rubenstein who held the office since the establishment of the Yeshiva. Also elected were: Wilferd Gordon, Q.C., chairman of the executive ;Sandor Hofstedter, first vice president; Max Rubenstein, second vice president; Sanit Sigler, treasurer; Joe Lebovic, secretary. The following comprise the new Board of the College: Abe Bleeman, Harry P. Botnick, Solomon P. Botnick, M. Buksbaum, E. H. Cooperman, Charles Garfunkel, M. W. ADATH ISRAEL TORAH WEEKEND

Conflicts and problems of modern ethics will be explored at a special Torah Weekend at Adath Israel Synagogue, February 1st, 2nd and 3rd. To solve these conflicts in the light of Jewish teachings, the Congregation has invited Rabbi Dr. Seymour Siegel, Professor of Ethics at the Jewish Theological Seminary, New York. Dr. Siegel, a native of Chicago, is a graduate of the University of Chicago as well as of the Rabbinical School of the Theological Seminary, from which he received his doctorate. He is one of the leading spokesmen of the Conservative movement.

In four sessions, Rabbi Siegel and other participants will cover a wide range of contemporary problems, under the themes: Moral Dilemmas of our Time—The Jewish Approach, which will include the "thalidomide" problem; Ethics of Survival, 'Better Red Than Dead?"; Religion and State, which will be discussed during the Saturday evening session.

The closing session of the weekend will be held in co-sponsorship with the Adath Israel Brotherhood as a brunch meeting on Sunday, February [illegible] 11:00 a.m. Rabbi Siegel's subject of discussion will be: Nuclear Power and Jewish Ethics.

Chairman of the Adult Study Committee, under whose auspices the weekend will be held, is Mr. Seymour Shachter, who will preside over the closing session on Sunday morning. Other sessions will be conducted by Dr. Fred G. Stulberg and Dr. Murray Herst, members of the committee.

IN TORONTO SOON: — Above is Allan Sherman, newest wit, of "My Son, The Folksinger" and "My Son ,The Celebrity" fame. He will appear at Toronto's O'Keefe Center on Sunday only, Feb. 17th, for two performances, in aid of the Northwestern General Hospital.

THEATRE HI-LIGHTS

Less than four months ago, Allan Sherman's name was familiar to only a handful of people in the upper and inner echelons of show business where he functioned as a television producer and comedy writer. Today Allan Sherman is a very well known person, due to his hit records, "My Son, the Folk Singer" and "My Son, the Celebrity". The first album has sold almost a million and is still going strong.

Fans who bought the album and who would like to see Sherman in person will have the opportunity when he appears in a one-man comedy show at the O'Keefe Center on February 17th, at 2:00 and 8:30 p.m. Purpose: to aid the Northwestern General Hospital, where the enlargement of the Emergency and Pediatric Wards is vitally urgent.

But Sherman is not an overnight success. He has done "extremely well" in show business after he got out of the army after World War II. He then wrote gags for such television and night club personalities as Steve Allen, Jackie Gleason, Phil Silvers, Victor Borge, Joe E. Lewis, Jerry Lester, and others In 1951, with Howard Merrill, he conceived the idea for the popular TV panel show, "I've Got A Secret", which has been on the air now for 11 years.

For his own "kick" at parties, Sherman started singing folk songs. Instead of doing them straight, however, he used the original folk tune and added what he called "kosher lyrics". Friends persuaded him to put them on wax and the rest is recording history.

MAURICE CHEVALIER AT O'KEEFE CENTER

By now it is old news that the delightful Maurice Chevalier appeared last week at Toronto's O'KEEFE Center, thanks to Alexander H. Cohen. The memory of his visit, however, lingers on.

The night I selected to go to O'Keefe was the coldest, most blustery and blistery I've ever encountered. I almost felt sorry for Mr. Chevalier Poor man, I envisaged him playing to an almost empty house.

But, most likely I don't know Torontonians very well. To my great delight, Mr. Chevalier performed to a capacity audience. Such is the magnetic personality of this remarkable Frenchman.

Mr. Chevalier must have put everyone in the audience to shame with his effervescent bounce and vitality. A person half the age of this 75-year-old veteran entertainer would have come up for air long before the finale.

What surprised me was his doing the Twist so smoothly. I'd have gotten through with only one chorus of "Le Twist de Canotier". And if one needs to be convinced still further as to Mr. Chevalier's youthfulness, he can be assured by the masterful renditions of such nostalgic love songs as: Thank Heaven for Little Girls, Place Pigalle, You Must Have Been a Beautiful Baby, You Made Me Love You, Ah Donnez Me'cn de la Chanson. The list is endless.

Maurice Chevalier has one advantage over his younger freres. He can make a song grow old gracefully which means that, as an old trouper, he also knows how to derive the most joy from his venerable age.

BNEI AKIVA HAS SEMINARS

The Bnei Akiva Organisation, youth group of Mizrachi-Hapoel Hamizrachi, will have leadership seminars every other week. They will be for the leaders of Bnei Akiva and for those who wish to be trained in leadership. Topics will deal with religion and education.

The first of the meetings was held on January 20th at 86 Vaughan Road. Others, to be held at the same place, are planned for: Sunday, February 3rd, 7:30 p.m. Guest speaker will be Rabbi Immanuel Schochet of the Kielser Synagogue, whose topic will be, Leadership in Jewish Youth; Saturday evening, February 16, 8:15 p.m., Zvi Reich, social worker at YMHA and camp director of Moshava, will speak on, Relationship Between Madracha In City And Camp; Sunday evening, March 3rd, 7:30 p.m., Rabbi Celniker of Beth Tzedec will discuss, Basic Ideas Of Conservativism And Why The Conservative Jew Has Chosen This Basis; Sunday, March 17th, 7:30 p.m. Pesach Shindler, principal of Adath Israel, will speak about, The Position Of The Jew In The Middle Ages.

RABBI PLAUT ON TV

On Monday night, 10:30 to 11:00 p.m., Rabbi W. Gunther Plaut of Toronto's Holy Blossom Temple will appear on the program, "In View" on Channel 6. He will be interviewed by drama critic Nathan Cohen on the new translation of the Torah.

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD

Since last week's confession we have been swamped with calls. Mostly from creditors and cranks. However we must warn you that music like ours can make your affair a costly one. There's bound to be an unusual run on the bar all nite. Even people who don't drink will be glad they started. You've no idea how we can murder any affair. Ours is music that can only be compared with a bad dream. This can be yours for the asking. Unfortunately our union does not permit even us to perform gratis so we must insist on a gratuity, which in mamalooshen means gelt. In spite of all this, our only distinction is, "we have no competitors." Every performance is a haunting nightmare.

Let us influence your next Simcha with our rare personality.
If you lack courage, a tranquiliser will make it easy for you to call: ,

... the important features of any product are service and quality. Price is related to value.

With so much in the news these days about low group rates by air, low cost hotels, and the development of the "mass market" it is well to pause for a minute and recall that the element of personal service and experience in planning that has been so closely identified with Dominion Travel since 1925 is even more essential today than in the past. For the best in individual arrangements - for the finest resort and city hotels - for tours of the finest quality - call DOMINION TRAVEL.

Catches often come bigger than the anglers at Miami Beach as this tiny vacationer shows, standing beside a sailfish that measures more than six feet. Here fishing comes in many varieties in both the open ocean and sheltered waters.

"Y" COUNCIL MEETS

The Canadian Council of Y.M.Y.A.'s and Jewish Community Centers will convene its second annual conference in Hamilton's Sheraton Connaught Hotel Saturday and Sunday, February 2nd and 3rd. Delegates from all parts of Canada will attend.

The Saturday daytime sessions will deal with recruiting and training personnel, and physical education for each age group will be discussed. Speaker will be Bert Life of Toronto; assisting him on a panel will be Hy Hochberg of Ottawa and Walter Lampe of Winnipeg.

A dinner-meeting will be held at the Jewish Community Center on Saturday evening. Guest speaker will be Emanuel Berlotsky of the National Welfare Board. His topic will be: The Role of The Center in the Next Decade. A panel discussion will include Harvey Golden of Montreal, Melvin Sorffer of Windsor and A.R. Micay, Q.C. of Winnipeg. Greetings will be made by Dan Vertlieb, president of the Jewish Community Council of Hamilton, and by the Canadian Jewish Congress.

Miss Florence Hutner, director of the Joint National Committee and Community Services, will be guest speaker at the Sunday morning session. Her topic will be: Planning for the Growth of New Centers in Smaller Communities.

The afternoon session will be presided at by Hy Soloway of Ottawa and adressed by: Harvey Golden of Montreal, Abe Berniker of Windsor and Meyer Gasner of Toronto.

An evaluation of Inter-City Youth activity will be conducted by Emanuel Weiner of Montreal, Nathan Markus of Toronto and Joseph Eisenberg of Windsor.

Mr. Samuel J. Granatstein is Council president.

TO SIGN REMEMBRANCE BOOK

On March 20th, representatives of one-hundred organizations in Toronto will meet in the banquet hall of Beth Shalom synagogue where, in a unique ceremony, they will sign the Sefer Hazikaron, Remembrance Book, in memory of a hundred towns and cities that fell prey to the Nazis in Poland.

The Remembrance Book is part of the campaign for the Ghetto Fighters' Museum in Kibbutz Lochamei Haghettaot, and is being prepared by the committee to be placed there. Through the United Organizations for Histadrut, the Toronto committee, under the chairmanship of the Hon. Allan Grossman, is raising funds for a new wing for the museum.

Prominent guests from out-of-town will attend the ceremony. A program of music and song is being arranged.

A delegation from Toronto will take the Remembrance Book to Israel where they will participate in the ceremonies observing the twentieth anniversary of the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising, to take place in the Kibbutz.

GHETTO FIGHTERS MUSEUM

At a recent meeting of the Committee For the Ghetto Fighters' Museum, the Hon. Allan Grossman, MPP, chairman, impressively addressed the fifty members who represented various folk organizations in Toronto. He stressed the need "to remember" and the importance of the museum in Israel.

J. Egit, fraternal director of the Histadrut, reported on the progress of the campaign, stating that the base is being broadened constantly to include more segments of the Jewish population. Vice president H. Ferens spoke of the resolutions by the Zaglembier, Varshaver, Tchenstochover and Ivansker societies to raise funds for the museum. Lazaar Lifshitz gave a report on the campaign progress in the synagogues. Nat Greenspan reported on the youth committee; Simon Lichter, the Farband committee.

Among those present were: I. Epstein, chairman of the United Organizations; M. Singer and M. Miltchin of Sunnyside Lodge; Mr. Shulman, president of the Lodzer Center; Dave Green of Chechanovsky Lodge; S. Blerstone, president of the Folks Farein; Kalman Berger, Secretary of the United Organizations; Al Schwab; Mrs. Winters; and George Steinhouse, executive director of Histadrut.

LADY MINISTER

HON. LILY H. MONTAGU

London (JCNS). — The death occurred last week in London of the Hon. Lily H. Montagu, one of ten children of the first Lord Swaythling, at the age of 89.

Lilian Helen Montagu was a life-long social and welfare worker, and one of the founders and leaders of the Liberal Jewish movement in Britain.

For her work as Chairman of the West Central Club, Miss Montagu was made an O.B.E. in 1937. In 1955 she was promoted to C.B.E. "for services to Jewish organizations."

Her welfare activities included work for health societies, hostels and several national organizations. She was active in the National Association of Women Workers, was one of the founders of the National Organization of Girls' Clubs and was a member of the Executive of the Women's Industrial Council.

Lily Montagu's most distinctive contribution to Anglo-Jewish life was her leadership in the movement to promote Liberal Judaism. This contribution was in one respect quite unique: the position she occupied as a minister.

In 1926 she founded the World Union of Progressive Judaism and was Hon. Secretary until 1954 when she succeeded the late Rabbi Dr. Leo Baeck as President. She paid a number of visits to America, and then addressed national conventions and occupied synagogue pulpits. The Hebrew Union College bestowed on her the honorary degree of D.H.L. (Doctor of Hebrew Law).
